Who Needs Little Brothers?

by Brenda Cassidy

... the newest addition to the Saplings family!!

About the Author

Brenda has learned many lessons on the long road to finding herself, one of the greatest of which has been that we need to love ourselves and take the time to do the things we are passionate about. Brenda has always been passionate about writing. It was one of the things she had put off for a long time, but is now bringing some of her ideas to life, and to be able to share them with others is one of her lifetime goals.

Brenda is the proud mother of three grown sons,
one granddaughter and three grandsons,
with another on the way.

Brenda is very proud to be partnering with Big Brothers Big Sisters on this project ... "It's a wonderful organization and a blessing to many little brothers and little sisters."
